

Ryan Aroney is a lifelong resident of Northeast Ohio and a graduate of the Cleveland State University School of Communication. He spends more time than he should following his favorite sports teams, all of which happen to play in Cleveland or Columbus.

When not writing for TheClevelandFan.com, Ryan works in media relations. Ryan also covers high school sports as a freelancer for local newspapers and contributes to a Cleveland State Vikings sports blog at LetsGoVikes.com.

A former college baseball player, Ryan enjoys taking part in as much baseball related activity as possible in his free time.