postseason play last season.

The Vikings will open the month of December back on the road at Wright State (Dec. 1) and at Detroit (Dec. 3) to start Horizon League play.

Then they will finish the long road trip at Robert Morris on Dec. 8.

The Vikings return home on Dec. 10 to face Akron, a NCAA tournament team a year ago.

Rounding out the rest of the non-conference schedule include a home game against Sam Houston State (Dec. 22), and road games at South Florida (Dec. 19), and at Toledo (Dec. 28).

Highlighting the conference schedule is a home-and-home with Butler, the national runners-up the past two years. The Vikings will travel to Butler on Jan. 13 and the Bulldogs will make the return trip to Cleveland on Feb. 11. Both games will be televised nationally on ESPN's family of networks.

The Vikings will close out the regular season playing five of their last seven games at the Wolstein Center, including hosting a BracketBusters game on Feb. 18. The BracketBusters opponent will be determined in early February.

CSU will have at least six TV games and will play as many as 13 games against teams that advanced to postseason play last year, including five against NCAA Tournament teams.
